3 (Call to order of the Court.)

4 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon, everyone.

5 This is Judge Montali. I haven't had any dealings with you in 6 | a while. I hope you're all well and surviving.

Mr. Karotkin, are you on the line?

MR. KAROTKIN: Yes, I am, sir. Thank you.

THE COURT: And Mr. Etkin, I presume you're going to do the lead today, huh?

MR. ETKIN: I am, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Oh. Or is Mr. Dubbs?

MR. DUBBS: Yes, Your Honor. Good afternoon.

14 THE COURT: Oh. Okay. Well, there are quite a number of interested parties on the call list, but I'm assuming that

16 | you gentlemen are the principal commentators and the writers,

17 | since you wrote the letter.

Case: 19-30088 Doc# 7091

Let's get out of the way and not waste time; I don't

19 | want to hear another discussion about what the plaintiffs --

20 | who they represent yet and what they haven't done. But

21 | similarly, I don't want any criticisms or arguments about what

22 | could have been done on the other side. My goal today -- and

23 I'm looking to you to help me -- is to just clean up what's left of the mess and see what can be done.

So Mr. Karotkin, your letter of the 1st, on page 3,

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. says that -- in two different places, that more materials -provision of voting materials have been sent out. And you even referred to packages to 2,800 individuals or entities very recently. Is that the whole package? Were they sent the whole solicitation package, generally, or something less than that? MR. KAROTKIN: Yes, Your Honor. I think, as we explained in the letter, there were about 4,400 claims filed. From our determination, 1,600 of those were claims based on debt securities. And under the plan, those claims are unimpaired and not entitled to vote. They received notice of the confirmation hearing and the other appropriate notices that went to those in nonvoting classes. And 2,800 other people who filed are entities that filed claims, received the entire voting package, including the ballots. And I believe that's reflected in our --THE COURT: Well --MR. KAROTKIN: -- pleading. And --THE COURT: Okay. MR. KAROTKIN: -- those ballots have -- some of those ballots have started to come in. THE COURT: Well, are you amenable to keeping the deadline open a little beyond the deadline -- beyond the May 15th deadline, if necessary? MR. KAROTKIN: Depending on how long, Your Honor, yes, I think that would -- we would be amenable to that.

Case: 19-30088

6 THE COURT: No, go ahead. Go ahead. That's fine.

MR. KAROTKIN: I think it's important to keep in mind, as we explained in both our letter and in our pleading that was filed earlier to address the late-filed claims, the debtors did fully comply with Your Honor's order with respect to the extended bar date that both Mr. Etkin and other counsel had extensive -- and I mean extensive -- comments on the form of that order and how it would be implemented. They signed off on that order before it was presented to Your Honor, and we fully

So any responsibility for late-filed claims does not lie with the debtors or with Prime Clerk. And any responsibility or -- for that clearly lies with the nominees.

And again, Mr. Etkin and Mr. Dubbs knew about these procedures,

20 and they signed off on them. So I think --

21 THE COURT: Well, I asked --

MR. KAROTKIN: -- we would be amenable to keeping --

THE COURT: -- I asked --

MR. KAROTKIN: -- to keeping --

25 THE COURT: -- at the outset that we not start going

- 1 | back into blaming people. I just want to --
- 2 MR. KAROTKIN: Okay. Well --
- 3 THE COURT: -- get a fix.
- 4 MR. KAROTKIN: -- I'm try -- what I'm trying to -- I'm
- 5 trying to do, Your Honor, is answer your question. We would be
- 6 amenable to a short extension, but we -- as I'm sure you are --
- 7 do not think it's appropriate to extend the bar date which
- 8 | could, in any way, in any way upset the schedule moving forward
- 9 to confirmation.
- 10 THE COURT: Well, the one thing that -- let's see if
- 11 | we have an agreement on this now. You make a point that I
- don't disagree with, that for the debt people, they don't get
- 13 to vote anyway. So in a sense, they don't get a ballot. For
- 14 the equity, I presume that, no matter what, if you had all the
- 15 ballots by the deadline, it's probably unlikely that the
- 16 ballots would change the outcome because of the --
- MR. KAROTKIN: Well, first of all -- if I could
- 18 address that --
- 19 THE COURT: I --
- MR. KAROTKIN: -- Your Honor -- the equity class, it
- 21 | really doesn't matter how they vote, because, as you well know,
- 22 equity -- those claims that are subordinated to the equity
- level and to satisfy the cram-down standards with respect to
- 24 equity is easy. And that doesn't present any impediment to
- 25 confirmation at all.

But again, we're amenable to extending the bar date for the equity claims for a short period of time.

THE COURT: Okay. The one -- but what I'm trying to get at is, yes, we could have avoided the whole thing by saying, we don't have ballots going out to any equity because they're either going to vote for the plan or they're going to get crammed down.

MR. KAROTKIN: Right.

THE COURT: But the one thing that's missing -- and I wish we had talked about it before, but we didn't, and so we're dealing with it now. Even the debtholders who don't get to vote do have the right, under the law, to object to confirmation.

MR. KAROTKIN: Um-hum.

THE COURT: Now, it's probably not likely that there would be meaningful objections to confirmation by a debtholder in this class, in the two nonimpaired securities claims class, and, again, maybe the same is true with the equity class. But the point is, as a matter of due process, what do I do about the fact that the deadline for objecting is literally days away, and there are people that are still getting their packages? What do I -- what do you have by way of a solution to that one?

MR. KAROTKIN: Well, Your Honor, as I indicated, 1,600 of those debt claimants that filed timely claims received their notice of the time within to which -- within which to object to confirmation, by April 23rd, which is more than adequate notice.

And following up on what you said, Your Honor, these people, to the extent they have valid claims, are going to be paid in full. It's hard for me to conceive of how their due process rights could be adversely impacted. And to the extent that they have an objection to confirmation, they've been given adequate notice.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Etkin --

MR. KAROTKIN: And it's not like -- and it's not, Your Honor, like this case is not subject to publicity, articles in the newspaper every day, filings on the website, notices on the website. These people, I am sure, have adequate notice of their ability to object to confirmation.

THE COURT: Well, Mr. Karotkin, you get a lot of mail, and I get a lot of mail. You might get more than I get, but — and I realize that I — five or ten letters from disgruntled people doesn't suffice or doesn't answer me for thousands of — whether they're securities claimants or fire victims. But the point is, when I get a letter saying, politely, what's the hell wrong with you people, you give me a deadline of April 16th, and I get it on April 24th. So it's not fun to have to deal with that.

But Mr. Etkin, you need to tell me what you want me to do given what we're -- what you just heard. Let's divide it into two or three issues. The fact that there may be an objecture (sic) to confirmation out there that is a little behind the time, we have to -- that's just a fact. And the -- and certainly, the equity -- excuse me, the debt class members don't get to vote. So it's unfortunate if they didn't get their ballots -- I mean their packages in time, but they won't have ballots.

So tell me a solution that you want me to solve here or to apply.

MR. ETKIN: Well, Your Honor, I'm hearing for the first time a couple of things. First of all, there was nothing in Mr. Karotkin's letter talking about the 1,600 debt securities claimants that filed claims and whether they did or did not get notice of the confirmation date and the objection deadline through a notice of nonvoting status. So we're glad to hear that, but we're hearing that for the first time.

I don't know where Mr. Karotkin's --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ETKIN: -- April 23rd date comes from, since the date referenced in Mr. Karotkin's letter is April 26th. And during these rather trying times, every day seems to matter some -- with respect to a whole host of things.

24 THE COURT: No, but I have to interrupt you.

25 MR. ETKIN: But I --

THE COURT: I'm read -- wait a minute. I'm reading his letter, and his letter says, as of April 23rd, Prime Clerk had mailed solicitation materials to 2,800 --

MR. ETKIN: Well --

THE COURT: -- et cetera.

12 MR. ETKIN: -- I apologize.

difference, but the point is at least some number of people got a bundle of papers on or about the 23rd or shortly thereafter. And it doesn't give them a lot of time, but certainly, they were given, at least in round numbers, two to three weeks' time to vote and/or object. And as I say, that's really what we're dealing with.

THE COURT: -- it's a small -- it's a small

And I don't know what the solution is. We simply cannot delay the confirmation process.

MR. ETKIN: Well, Your Honor, while some motives were imputed to us, we have no intention of delaying the confirmation process. We understand -- we've been involved in this case from the get-go, and so we understand what's going on. We understand the significance of the timing, and it was never our intention to delay or upset the scheduling with respect to confirmation. So let me get that out of the way quickly.

With respect to those 4,400 claims -- and again, as we indicate in our letter -- some of those claims were filed by agents' representatives on behalf of others. I don't know whether the notices that Mr. Karotkin is talking about went directly to beneficial holders or whether some did not. But let's assume that, with respect to those 4,400, I'm not going to doubt what Mr. Karotkin is representing to the Court, that -- as to those 4,400, that notices did go out.

This was an issue that we all identified, including the Court, way back when with respect to timing. We're not presupposing or looking to presuppose who's going to say what, who's going to object and why. We have an individual claim process that the Court ordered, so each one of these claimants has a right to take whatever position they think is appropriate. We were just concerned in contacting the Court — and not knowing some of the things that we just heard — that people just won't be getting that opportunity.

So as far as the issue of solicitation and confirmation, we understand what Mr. Karotkin is saying as it relates to the 4,400 claims. We were troubled, and what's also set forth in our letter, and the most glaring example of it are

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. the two declarations of service -- certifications of service that were filed in mid-April, around the April 16th date or immediately before it, that references probably over 50,000 individual beneficial holders.

Now, again, just to be clear -- and I think this was also set forth in our letter -- it's not a question of blame, Your Honor. We're not looking to blame anybody. We understand -- and in fact, I believe that we wanted to make it clear in the notice and the bar date order that Your Honor signed that the nominees were required, required to either send the notices out themselves within seven days or provide the information to the debtor.

Now, I don't know to what extent there was any policing done with respect to that. This was an order of Your Honor's that folks should have complied with if they had obligations specific to the nominees. I don't know what happened there. We weren't part of any of the back and forth between the debtor and Prime Clerk with respect to this. But the fact remains that over 50,000 beneficial owners didn't get any notice of the extended bar date until right before or certainly after April 16th came and went.

And that's troubling to us in the context of the alternative that the Court decided to impose rather than granting our 7023 motion, the alternative of having the extended bar date, where individuals have to step up on their

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. own and file their claims.

Now, yes, we've seen a number of people file letters with the Court, formal motions. Your Honor, I can tell you that the Labaton firm lead counsel has fielded multiple calls as to what to do since they got their notices of the extended bar date after April 16th. So these are the people who have the wherewithal to at least inquire. Others may say, oh, it's April 18th, April 20th, you know, what am -- you know, what am I going to do now?

Yeah, there are institutions out there who have claims, and they filed them. There are individuals out there who have claims. And the fact that such a significant number of these potential claimants did not really have the opportunity to file a timely claim, and what they're going to do at the end of day is something that's concerning to us and something that we felt was important to raise to the Court.

The 4,400 notices of -- or solicitation packages and ballots, 2,800 of those and 1,600 notices of nonvoting status to debt securities claimants, that covers the 4,400. These -- there's a finite number identified in the declarations filed by Prime Clerk of folks that likely never had the opportunity. Some have stepped up and advised the Court, but certainly 50,000 didn't. And regardless of whose fault it might be, that's just a fact. That's a fact that -- THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. ETKIN: -- that --

2 THE COURT: Okay. But what do I do --

3 MR. ETKIN: -- that is confronting all of us --

4 THE COURT: But what --

5 MR. ETKIN: -- at this point.

THE COURT: But what should we do about it? The debtor has responded to the handful of ones that came to my attention. And to my knowledge, they've given every one of them an opportunity to file a late claim. Let -- distinguish -- let's separate the claim, and let's not worry about an objection to confirmation. It's probably not likely, and no action required from a person with nonvoting status other than to file a claim.

Mr. Karotkin said that there are -- or maybe you said it -- there are also group claims filed by someone else, so there are more than 4,400 claims filed. And if another bunch of people come in later than now or later than next week or later than next month, the debtor can either agree to let them in late, or they can individually petition, or, if necessary, someone on their behalf can ask for an extension of the filing date, not the confirmation date or the voting date.

So doesn't that solve the problem? Just like it would be for the fire victims. If we had fire victims who, for some reason, had a legitimate explanation for why they couldn't get a claim on file, they'd been allowed in. There have already been some that have been allowed in. What's wrong with -- I mean, isn't that the only way we can possibly deal with it at this point?

5 MR. ETKIN: Well --

THE COURT: And I'm open --

MR. ETKIN: -- Your Honor --

THE COURT: -- to solutions. I'm open --

9 MR. ETKIN: I --

10 THE COURT: -- to alternatives.

MR. ETKIN: -- I understand, and I'm trying to be helpful. And to be frank, at this stage, we are more concerned about their ability to file a claim and be able to achieve some recovery in this case than issues of objecting to confirmation and voting issues, which may not be practical. It's unfortunate, but it may not be practical.

Your Honor, I was somewhat troubled by the language in the order regarding those four or five late claims, where it indicates that the debtor, in their sole discretion, can deal with these claims and designate them as timely filed. The idea of these folks coming in and making motions before the Court is as impractical as some of the other issues that we're confronting on the other side of this problem.

Your Honor, to us, again, it's a question of giving people the opportunity to file a claim, because we feel that

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. 1 tens of thousands of folks never really got the opportunity 2 unless they decided to take it upon themselves and provide the 3 Court with a letter or some evidence. 4 I don't know whether the ques -- I don't know whether 5 it's a function of providing some short form notice to these 6 same group of people. They've already been identified in these 7 two declarations to indicate that they can file a proof of 8 claim because of the timing of when they got the original 9 notice of the extended bar date. But I think just sitting back 10 and waiting for them to take action is not going to, in our 11 view, accomplish the goal of providing folks with an 12 opportunity to file a claim under these circumstances. 13 And again --14 MR. KAROTKIN: Your Honor, can I respond? 15 MR. ETKIN: -- Your Honor, I'm not --16 MR. KAROTKIN: Can I respond briefly? 17 THE COURT: Yeah, sure. Oh, wait one second. 18 MR. KAROTKIN: Oh, I'm sorry. 19 THE COURT: I -- just finish -- Mr. Etkin, just finish 20 your point, and Mr. Karotkin, you can --21 MR. ETKIN: No --22 THE COURT: All right. Well, go --23 MR. ETKIN: -- Mr. Karotkin sounds anxious. 24 THE COURT: All right. Go -- well, go ahead. I mean,

25

I -- yes --

1 MR. KAROTKIN: I'm always anxious.

THE COURT: -- sir, Mr. Karotkin, please.

3 MR. KAROTKIN: Thank you.

4 THE COURT: Now, you're --

MR. KAROTKIN: Look, Your Honor, I think you put your finger on it. There is a process that you approved to address late claims, and anyone has the right to file a motion with the Court to allow a late claim. It's not unusual. It's done in every -- it's available in every single case. And for Mr. Etkin to suggest that our discretion to agree or not agree somehow prevents the Court from getting involved if someone wants to get the Court involved, that was never the intent. And it certainly is not reflected in your order.

There is -- as I said, there is nothing unique here.

And moreover, these people -- first of all, Mr. Etkin and Mr.

Dubbs' letter suggests that the people reflected in their letter who got "late notice" was somehow Prime Clerk sending out the notice late. That's just wrong. Those notices and those certificates of service reflect the mailing of notice to names that were given late by the nominees who did not comply with your letter, period, in your order. Period. That is those people.

But nevertheless, we sent them notice as fast as we could. We sent them ballots as fast as they -- as we could. And they're sending in their -- they're sending in their

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.
1 ballots. People are sending in ballots. So there is a process
 2 in place --
 3
              THE COURT: Well, again --
 4
              MR. KAROTKIN: -- that -- 5
              THE COURT: Again -- hold on. The ballots are not as 6 important as the claims. We agree to -- 7
              MR. KAROTKIN: Okay. But --
 8
              THE COURT: -- that, right?
 9
              MR. KAROTKIN: -- they had the -- they had the 10 opportunity, and they still have the opportunity; they can file 11 claims if -- no one prevents anybody from filing a late claim 12 if they believe they have a claim, subject to all reservations 13 of rights that parties-in-interest have. No one has precluded 14 anyone from doing this. And I think that what's really going 15 on here is we're back trying to revisit this class action, and 16
     Mr. Etkin's clients are concerned about all of these people.
17
              Well, in their letter, they make it perfectly clear 18 that all of these issues, Your Honor -- and if you look page 5 19 of their letter, all of these issues can be addressed -- 20
              MR. ETKIN: I think, Your Honor, Mr. Karotkin is 21 violating your initial statement -- 22
              MR. KAROTKIN: May I finish --
23
              MR. ETKIN: -- with respect --
24
              MR. KAROTKIN: -- Mr. Etkin?
25
              MR. ETKIN: -- to what this conference --

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. ETKIN: -- with respect to what this conference

3 | should be about.

4 MR. KAROTKIN: Okay. In their --

5 THE COURT: Okay. Let -- don't interrupt.

6 MR. KAROTKIN: At the end of their letter, Your

7 Honor --

17

19

20

21

8 THE COURT: -- don't interrupt him.

9 MR. KAROTKIN: At the end of their letter, they 10 acknowledge, as they must, that all of this can be addressed 11 post-confirmation. And if they think there's a basis for them 12 to have the ability to again come in and ask Your Honor to 13 represent all of these claims and speak on behalf of all of 14 these -- of all of these claimants, they can come in and ask 15 you to revisit your prior order. Nothing precludes them from 16 doing this.

And I think it's also important to note, Your Honor, that these -- all of these claims, as well as the claims asserted in the Northern District securities action, are the subject of ongoing mediation with former District Judge Layn Phillips and former Bankruptcy Judge Randall Newsome. And that process should continue.

23 THE COURT: Well, I --

MR. KAROTKIN: And maybe all of this --

THE COURT: Hold on.

1 MR. KAROTKIN: -- will --

THE COURT: Mr. Karotkin, I didn't know -- I didn't know that until you gave me the letter. I grant you that I'm the one that, some months ago, added Judge Newsome's name to -- his to-do list was to deal with this. I didn't know what had come of it. I'm happy to hear that there's progress and that Judge Phillips has gotten involved. That's fine, too. That solves the problem.

Look, it seems to me that -- here's the one thing that I want to say, and I -- again, Mr. Karotkin, you are violating the rule. We're not here to decide whether we're going to revisit the Rule 705- -- 23 motion or whether Mr. Etkin or any of his colleagues are trying to jockey for position here.

The issue is this. I'm looking at the latest item on our docket that's relevant to this. On the 4th of May, Deborah Frost (phonetic) wrote a letter to the Court and says she used to work for PG&E, and she knows -- she expressed herself about some of the practices she's familiar with, but a very informal letter. It says, I didn't get my notice in time; I want to submit my claim.

I'm assuming, Mr. Karotkin, that someone on your end has looked at that, or will, and has done something so Ms.

Frost will get her day -- her opportunity to file her claim.

24 And --

MR. KAROTKIN: Yes, sir.

1 THE COURT: -- and --

2 MR. KAROTKIN: I can confirm that --

3 THE COURT: But that being said --

4 MR. KAROTKIN: -- we --

Case: 19-30088 Doc# 7091

5 THE COURT: Okay, that's good.

What I'm not going to do, Mr. Etkin -- and this goes back to your side -- I'm not going to issue some blanket order that creates a new bar date of a month out in the future, because that just awards -- rewards the tardy people. And so whether somebody should have gotten his notice on April 10th or March 30th or May 1st is one thing. But it's another thing to then start again. In other words, I'm sympathetic to people who, for whatever reason -- whether it be COVID or change of address or something -- have to, promptly in response to the notice, but not -- not promptly.

So I'm not going to lose any sleep over a former shareholder or equity purchaser who maybe doesn't have an opportunity to object to confirmation when they're going to -- we'll have a plan that will pay them in full. And it's unfortunate that some who should have a right to vote maybe won't get the right to vote because of the delays. But it seems very unlikely to have any material impact, either because their vote was not necessary or because the vote wouldn't have made a difference on any reasonable estimate of what they would be.

So it really comes down to the debtor doing the right thing for the people who are after the deadline but diligent in trying to vindicate their rights, but not to make the debtors reward people who have slept on their rights and now are going to get a -- would get another notice of a new bar date, which I'm not inclined to do.

So --

- MR. KAROTKIN: I think there were some bulk claims
- 13 filed, and --
- 14 THE COURT: Yes.
- MR. KAROTKIN: -- whether those are appropriate or
- 16 | not, we've reserved our rights.
- 17 THE COURT: No, but all I'm asking is what does
- 18 | that -- does that affect the total? Is the bulk part of the
- 19 4,400, or is it on top of the 4,400?
- 20 MR. KAROTKIN: I don't know the answer to that
- 21 question. Perhaps one of my colleagues who is on the phone
- does. I don't know the answer.
- MR. SLACK: So this is Richard Slack from Weil, Your
- 24 Honor. And the --
- THE COURT: Good afternoon, Mr. Slack.

MR. SLACK: -- the answer to that is, is that the bulk claims, the -- if there are 2,000, let's say, that are filed by one agent, those are not included in the 2,800.

THE COURT: So there might be -- so the 2,800 could conceivably be 4,800, right?

MR. SLACK: Yeah, that would be -- the idea would be there would be more beneficial owners underneath the one bulk claim. And again --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. SLACK: -- Mr. Karotkin said, the debtors are reserving their rights with respect to those claims.

THE COURT: No, I'm -- I realize that they're reserving their rights. But the point is they're not -- they might be part of a bulk group, but they were timely. They're not a timing problem. There might be some other problem, but that's for another day. So I'm assuming that, at some point -- well, first, there'll be -- either, there'll be a mediator resolution or a formula or a matrix, or, secondly, there will be some sort of process for the debtor to take issue with claims that they think should be objected to.

And that's --

MR. KAROTKIN: That's correct.

THE COURT: -- not something we're going to -- we're not worrying about that before the plan gets considered for confirmation.

1 Well, I'm inclined to say that I -- it's an 2 unfortunate result that some claims were lost in the shuffle. 3 And at least I, personally, and Mr. Karotkin and his clients 4 appear to be doing what they can for those people who have come 5 forth and complained. And I think I'm just going to draw the 6 line at that point. The Ninth Circuit is very tolerant of late 7 claims if there are explanations. I'm not sure if this would 8 necessarily fall into within any further category. 9 But obviously, Mr. Etkin, and everyone on your side, 10 if there are some folks out there that are sitting twiddling 11 their thumbs wondering what do I do, the answer is they better 12 do something quickly rather than not. And if the debtor, on 13 its own, just allows them in, then there's nothing to be 14 concerned about. And I -- other than that --15 MR. ETKIN: Your Honor, may I --THE COURT: -- I'm inclined to --16 17

MR. ETKIN: -- may I have that -- may I have that 18 opportunity that I requested --

19 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

MR. ETKIN: -- a moment ago to --20

21 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

22 MR. ETKIN: -- to just weigh in on some of this?

23 And I'm going to backtrack a little bit, because I 24

don't want certain things unanswered on the record.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ETKIN: And I'm going to -- and hopefully, I'm not going to be violating your initial admonition, but it's hard to just stand idly by.

Yes --

5 THE COURT: You can get a little one in there.

6 MR. ETKIN: -- there's a --

7 THE COURT: You can get a little nudge --

8 MR. ETKIN: Yes --

9 THE COURT: -- in there.

MR. ETKIN: Yes, there's a mediation. We're surprised that that was mentioned in a public document, but, yes, there's a mediation going forward. And we'll leave it at that. It would be inappropriate to comment any further as to where that is, but it is pending. That's what I can say.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ETKIN: Second of all -- second of all, this is -the last thing we're doing is litigating 7023 through a letter before Your Honor. All we suggested -- and very simply -- and it's -- and also, from a post-confirmation perspective, all we're suggesting -- all we suggested was that, given the magnitude of the claims that were filed, that, at some point, we've got to address the issue of how those claims are going to get resolved given the character of those claims.

I find it interesting, at best, Your Honor, that, while we were arguing the 7023 motion, the idea of granting the motion was -- the debtors took a Chicken Little approach that the sky would fall if that motion would be granted. But in fact, we argued then -- and we feel no differently now -- that claims resolution with respect to these claims, whether they be class-wide claims or individual claims, can be handled post confirmation. So we've been consistent with that. I don't believe the debtor has.

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Case: 19-30088 Doc# 7091

And finally, Your Honor, with respect to the remedy here, the only thing that I would suggest, given where the Court appears to be coming down, is that there should be no reason, no reason whatsoever why any of the 50,000 plus beneficial owners identified in those last two certificates of service, where the ballots — the ballots — the claim forms were mailed out in such a way as, at best, a potential claimant got it a couple of days before the 16th or certainly, in many cases, after the 16th, if any of those folks file a late claim, I think that those claims should be able to come in, subject to whatever defenses the debtor has.

And there's no reason to deal with those on a case-bycase basis. I'm not saying provide a new bar date. I understand where the Court's coming out on that, but there appear to be no reason to me why, with respect to those claims -- and again, leaving aside the issue of blame, because that's really not relevant. What's relevant are the rights of these people to have an opportunity to put a claim in in this

1 case.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, Mr. Etkin, all I can say is that, if you were not a lawyer representing a client here but you were a former PG&E stock purchaser, and you got something from Prime Clerk on or about April 16th or April 17th and said you got to do something by a claims deadline, you might have done something by May 6th. And if it's May 6th and you still haven't, and May 7th and May 8th and May 9th, then, at some point, somebody's going to say you waited too long. And I just told you about Ms. Frost, who got her letter to our court on May 4th, and her claims are now being processed. Not allowed but processed.

And so I'm not going to tell you how to tell several thousand people what they ought to do, because we all know what they ought to do. And if they didn't do it, then they suffer the consequences.

So again, it would be --

MR. ETKIN: No, Your Honor, when they're reaching out to -- when they're reaching out to us, as I mentioned earlier, that's what we're telling them to do. And --

THE COURT: Fine. That's --

MR. ETKIN: -- we're still getting phone calls.

THE COURT: You won't get any criticism from me for doing that. But at some point, I'm not going to be very sympathetic to somebody that says, gee, almighty, I was in my

PG&E Corp. and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. vacation home, and I didn't get my mail forwarded to me in Florida because I was in Michigan, which is what some people said. And I'm saying, well, I feel sorry for you, but what do you do when you're not acting on something that you got on April 16th? I'm going -- let's leave it at that. Does anyone else on the call want to be heard on today's subject? Okay. For those of you that are staying tuned to what's going on on our end, we are scheduled to have a next calendar on the 22nd --

THE COURT: -- 23rd, whatever day we're -- next week, sorry, the 12th -- May 12th.

MR. KAROTKIN: May 12th.

THE COURT: And I'm hopeful that we will be able to have our problems worked out and give an opportunity for people to participate by video. But at the moment, I can't tell you that we've got it all resolved. But we're working on it. And so stay tuned.

We'll put something on the court docket before the end of this week if we're going to be doing a video the way -- for example, the way Judge Donato -- those of you that participated in the hearing before Judge Donato a couple weeks ago, using that same format. We're likely to try to do something that way or back through CourtCall. I just can't tell you exactly that
